• MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The following message was received from the Governor by his Private Secretary, Mr. Gindrat :

STATE OF ALABAMA, }
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
Montgomery, November 21, 1872. }

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

I confidently hope that the deliberations on which you have entered, may redound to the general and permanent welfare of the people of the whole State.

Commencing directly as you do, from your respective constituencies, and representing all sections of the State, you are immediately acquainted with their varied but common interests, as well as the views they entertain regarding the more important questions of policy agitating the public mind, and which are likely to invoke your attention during your present session ; and knowing these views, you will recognize the popular will as a presiding and controlling influence at all stages of your legislation.

The recent stern and exciting political contest, out of which the country has just emerged, no doubt roused into activity, passions, prejudices and personal animosities, yet I earnestly trust that these have yielded to better and nobler impulses of broad and comprehensive philanthropy—to a spirit of patriotic benevolence. It will be a matter of joy if the General Assembly of Alabama should exhibit to the world a worthy example of subordinating party antagonisms to the general good, of directing their labors and zeal to a beneficent emulation in promoting prosperity and peace among the million of people whose civil liberties, whose dearest social and political interest have been confided to their wisdom and fidelity.

Legislation at this crisis in her history may seriously effect the future of Alabama. There are periods in the life of States, as well as of individuals, where one false movement may entail a long succession of evils which regret cannot lighten, nor effort entirely overcome.

Alabama is entering upon a new career of industry needing legislative encouragement, if not protection, to secure its final success. With the emancipation of the colored race there arose at once an inclination and necessity to find new avenues to labor and profit, and the mountain belt of North Alabama, with its inestimable affluence of mineral deposits, water power, and timber, offered a vast inviting field which is already rapidly attracting capital and an intelligent, industrious population. The restoration of the Alabama and Chattanooga Rail Road to active operations, and the recent completion of the South and North Alabama Road, have awakened along their extensive lines a restless spirit of energy which promises grand results of development and prosperity throughout one-third of the State, which was, but yesterday as it were, inaccessible to traffic or enterprise. Villages, that had for years dragged on a sluggish and profitless existence, began to exhibit cheering signs of a prosperous future. In their centre, where eighteen months ago the smoke of scarcely a single lonely cottage darkened the horizon, may now be seen a flourishing town of nearly four thousand inhabitants, daily extending its limits and multiplying its industries. The infant city of Birmingham is wonderful in its growth, and an impressive monument to the foresight, confidence and energy of its founder.

The natural wealth of Alabama, slumbering still in the unopened recesses of the mountains may be considered geographically within the limits of a particular section, yet when developed, its value will be felt everywhere throughout the State, from the Tennessee to the Gulf; not a city nor a citizen but will experience its vitalizing influence. Whenever therefore, legislation will avail to aid in developing the grand treasures with which nature has enriched our State, the General Assembly will no doubt, wisely and liberally extend its fostering care. Much has already been accomplished in that direction, through the agency of the Railroads which have been constructed within our borders during the past few years, and I feel at once a pleasure and a pride in pausing here to invite your attention to the signal advancement Alabama has made in the progress of her Railroad system, despite the manifold obstacles, and adverse circumstances it has had to encounter. You will be gratified in being informed that since the close of the late civil conflict, indeed it may be said, within the comparatively brief period of five years, nearly one thousand miles of Railroad have been built—distributed through nearly every portion of the State, placing them in easy and cheap communication with each other, and affording access to the commerce and traffic of the world.— The present administration has, with feelings of high and peculiar satisfaction, witnessed the completion of three roads of vital importance, not only to the regions they penetrate, but of incalculable value to the whole State. The Montgomery and Eufaula Railroad, if I adopt what seems to be the modern mode of measuring space, has brought within a few hours distance from the capitol, the populous and productive country of the Chattahoochee, as well as united in social and business intercourse with the rest of the State, a section which, as one of its noblest citizens once pathetically exclaimed in the Senate Chamber, “only realized its political connection with Alabama through the exactions of the Tax Collector”.

The South and North Alabama Railroad has been slow in its progress, and its completion long deferred, yet when we survey the magnitude of the work, and allow for the many unavoidable interruptions which from time to time have intervened to obstruct it, its final consummation is well calculated to inspire sentiments of wonder and admiration for the spirit and energy which achieved it. An anticipation of the benefits that will surely emanate from this great improvement is beyond present conception, yet its present visible advantages manifest its importance and value. The rugged mountain barrier of the Cumberland range, which so long separated North and South Alabama, has been cleft assuader, and communication established between sections, only heretofore existing by expensive and circuitous routes through the neighboring States of Georgia or Mississippi. This road has also opened a direct highway to the granaries and commercial Marts of the North-West, and created new and numerous outlets for our southern products, above all, it has rendered available, fields of coal and mountains of iron, surpassed in extent and in quality in no other locality—perhaps in no other country on the Globe. What has been said of the South and North road, may in like manner be said in connection with the Alabama and Chattanooga, running in a different direction, crossing near the centre of each, partially through the same region and diagonally across the State. Apart from the material developments which will ensue from it, the Alabama and Chattanooga road is destined to be a great, if not the chief thoroughfare of travel and transportation, from the cities of the Atlantic coast to the lower Mississippi and onward through Texas to the Pacific slope. In addition to these, other similar enterprises are now progressing, which, when finished will contribute their peculiar benefits to the State, and the localities through which they are projected. The Grand Trunk Road, beginning at our Commercial Capital, Mobile, is rapidly moving forward to the coal fields of the Cahaba and other regions of North Alabama; already it has reached its Warrior crossing, fifty-five miles from Mobile, and encouraged by a fair business in agricultural districts through which it passes.

From the thriving town of Opelika, the Savannah and Memphis Road is in operation for a distance of forty miles in a North-Western direction, and progressing earnestly and surely towards its destinations, first, Birmingham, and thence to the navigable waters of the Tennessee. The company constructing it, I learn from what I deem reliable sources of information, are determined, and possessed of the means to continue and complete the undertaking.

The Selma, Marion and Memphis Railroad is of great importance to the State; especially to the rich agricultural counties of middle and western Alabama, is also going forward, and when it forms its connection with the Mobile and Ohio Railroad will constitute a valuable member of our Railroad System.

The Selma and Gulf Railroad overtaken by adversity seems to have halted for the present at its fortieth mile. I am, however, unofficially informed that a recent sale of the road to an English company will insure its speedy completion to the Gulf. The East Alabama and Cincinnati Road has not proceeded beyond its twentieth mile from Opelika, a point reached prior to the commencement of the last session of the Legislature. The railroads referred to form what may be denominated the railroad system of the State and heretofore the recipients of the State's endorsement.

The necessity for railroads, and the multiplied benefits they confer upon all the pursuits and interests of mankind ignorance can scarcely summon hardihood to question in this century of human life, yet a great difference of opinion does prevail regarding the true policy of Government towards them. In this State this question has been agitated under the form of endorsement of railroad bonds. Ignoring, however, the conflicting views of individuals, or of parties, I have since my accession to the Executive Office simply endeavored to execute the endorsement laws in letter and spirit as I found them on the statute book. I recognized in them a solemn contract between the State and the railroad companies in the first place, and in the second a pledge of the most scrupulous good faith on the part of the State to all persons who honestly and innocently loaned their money on the State's endorsement, and I diligently and earnestly sought to measure my acts by this interpretation of the law. The wisdom of the legislation it was not my province to determine; and to have decided upon its constitutionality, would have been an usurpation of power in the highest degree culpable. The policy of endorsement had been sanctioned by two successive Legislatures—first by the Legislature of 1867, sitting before the General Assembly received a new form from the reconstruction acts of Congress by a Legislature composed of many of the veteran lawgivers, and patriots of the State—and repeatedly confirmed, though modified by succeeding Legislatures, while its constitutionality had never been assailed in the judicial tribunals, where alone the acts of the Legislature may be declared unconstitutional. Under these impressive circumstances I have pursued the course I conceived to be in strict conformity with the statutory provisions. I may, however, be permitted here to say that I have not yet met with any argument or discovered any fact sufficient in my judgment to establish the unconstitutionality of any of the endorsement laws, and thereby to invalidate the obligation assumed by the State in pursuance thereof. It has been alleged and warmly urged in the Legislature, as well as in portions of the public press that the State is not liable whenever it is shown that the railroad company had failed to comply strictly with law, either before or after the endorsement. I suggest that a closer scrutiny of the laws will reveal the fact that the wrongful act of the company works a forfeiture of its rights to endorsement releases the State from its obligation to endorse, but not from liability to an innocent and "bona fide" purchaser of the bonds. This position will certainly be universally admitted to be true as to such violative acts committed ante-cedently to endorsement. An endorser surely cannot successfully plead the failure of the maker to perform a contract between themselves against an innocent endorser, a stranger to the contract, and who was neither the cause, nor cognizant of the failure.

If for example a railroad company obtained endorsement, and made the first sale of endorsed bonds for less than ninety per cent. of nominal value, this would not render the endorsement illegal or avoid it on bonds in the hands of and owned by a subsequent innocent purchaser at ninety-five per cent. I cannot think that such a judgment would be pronounced, either in a court of law or equity—it would certainly not be consonant with high morality. This reasoning is not intended to apply to the endorsement of bonds which under no circumstances ever had been entitled or ever could be entitled to endorsement. One illustration will manifest the distinction. The law authorizes endorsement at the rate of sixteen thousand dollars per mile throughout its entire length, and no more. If the Governor should, however, endorse bonds for a greater number of miles than the road contains. I do not think the State would be liable on such endorsement. The purchaser is bound to use all possible diligence and vigilance for his own protection, and whenever he can use them, and neglects to do so he must suffer. The length of a road is ascertainable, and the number of the bond serves to admonish caution. There must be some limit to liability imposed on the State by the endorsement of the Executive, and that which I have stated appears to be a right one. The State never authorized such endorsement on the fulfilment of any conditions—the bonds represent a fiction not a road, and the holder could by investigation have ascertained that fact. At the last session of the Legislature the constitutionality of the two million bonds issued for the benefit of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad Com.

pany, and the liability of the State thereon also, became subjects of long and earnest discussion. The denial of their constitutionality was maintained chiefly on the ground that the statute authorizing their issue failed to receive on its passage the required constitutional number of votes. This argument originated in the supposition that the bonds being the direct bonds of the States their issuance was restrained by section 32 article iv of the constitution which reads: "The General Assembly shall not borrow or raise money on the credit of this State, except for purposes of military defence against actual or threatened invasion, rebellion or insurrection, without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house, nor shall the debts or liabilities of any corporation, person or persons, or other States be guaranteed, nor any money, credit or other thing be loaned, or given away, except by a like concurrence of each house, and the votes shall in each case be taken by the yeas and nays and be entered on the journals."

The face of the bonds, however, on examination will be found not to be in the usual words of State bonds, but purport thereon to have been issued for the express purpose of aiding the construction of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad, a fact which clearly transfers the authority for their issuance to section 33 of article iv of the constitution which provides that "the State shall not engage in works of internal improvement; but its credit in aid of any such may be pledged by the General Assembly on undoubted security, by a vote of two-thirds of each house of the General Assembly." The language of the two sections cited widely differ in letter and intention. The former section prescribes a majority of two-thirds of the members of each house, the latter a majority of two-thirds of each house. A majority of the members of each house mentioned in section 32 alluded to contemplates a majority of all members entitled to seats in the body; a majority of the house mentioned in section 33 means a majority of two-thirds of a quorum, which is any number over 50. Section 7, article iv declares a majority of each house shall constitute a quorum.

It may be asked why different majorities should be thus prescribed. The answer is found in the sections themselves. In section 32 the State is solely and exclusively liable for the payment of the bonds; in section 33 the beneficiary railroad company is required to give good and sufficient security that the company would pay both principal and interest of the bonds as either became due. I have deemed it to be my duty thus briefly to dwell on a subject of such general public interest, rather as suggestive of facts than by way of argument.

The aggregate endorsements of railroad bonds amount to at the present date ($15,110,000.) fifteen million one hundred and ten thousand dollars, a sum apparently well calculated to excite grave apprehensions in the popular mind as to their financial capacity to meet it without an onerous and impoverishing increase of taxation as well as to impair the credit of the State abroad. I do not think there is the least real foundation for such fears. The State is well secured against ultimate loss. Were the roads sold to-day under the mortgages, and the liens of the State three-fourths of them would realize the amount of the endorsements, while the remaining fourth, embracing about seventy-five miles, would realize little less than the endorsement. This is the opinion too of persons of experience and matured judgment in railroad matters. The security being equal to her liability it is false and injurious to include in the estimate of the State indebtedness the amount of railroad endorsement which the enemies of our credit and interested malice have studiously done. I may add that the iron and other movable property of the roads would alone realize three-fourths of the amount of the endorsement. Thus it will be seen that the enormity of the State's indebtedness so often proclaimed to the detriment of her credit and solvency dwindles into insignificance.

Excluding from the calculation the contingent liability incurred by endorsement of railroad bonds, the public debt of the State may be stated as follows:

Eight per cent bonds.....	$ 2,376,000 00
Six per cent bonds.....	770,500 00
Five per cent bonds.....	3,296,800 00

$ 6,443,300 00

Add to this eight per cent bonds loaned to

A. & C. R. R.....$ 2,000,000 00

And the bonds loaned to the Montgomery

& Eufaula Road..... 300,000 00

And we have, total.....$ 8,743,300 00

This is the bonded indebtedness of the State, embracing $3,445,000, contracted at periods previous to the civil war; $1,500,000 authorized by the act approved December 15, 1865; $500,000 by act approved August 12, 1868, and $1,000,000 by act of December 15, 1871, for the purpose of paying the interest on endorsed bonds, &c., and the $2,000,000 loaned to the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad Company. To which may be added $396,600, the sum of what is known as the Patton tax certificates—non-interest bearing—and we have a total public debt of $8,743,300, with semi-annual interest thereon of $699,464.

I must not be understood by this computation as repudiating the State's obligation to her domestic funds, such as the University and School funds.

Again ignoring the policy of the endorsement system, I recommend earnestly an exact and faithful observance of all the State's obligation authorized by constitution and law. The public credit of Alabama has always occupied a proud and elevated place in the financial registers of the world, and it should be scrupulously preserved. No unworthy pretext should be permitted to seduce us into a violation of our pledged faith. Misfortunes may interfere with, and excuse punctuality, but can never justify an abandonment of our obligations. Adversity has visited her, but has not deprived the State of her native wealth, and fidelity to her promises in a season of poverty will only shine the brighter in the days of her prosperity. I urge immediate provision to meet all her unpaid liabilities at the earliest possible day. Procrastination will only tend to increase the burden. Indeed, our whole financial condition urgently demands your calm and prudent action, for it cannot be disguised that the State is threatened with the gravest fiscal embarrassments, unless adequate remedies are promptly adopted. The present administration has had to contend with a ceaseless succession of demands without means sufficient to satisfy them. On my accession to office, I found the treasury containing the trifling pittance of sixteen hundred and forty dollars and twenty cents ($1,640 20), with a very large amount of demands upon it unprovided for. These, added to the current appropriations and necessary expenditures, have greatly transcended the income of the government. It is due to you, to the people, and to the administration to assign the causes of the deficiency. By reference to the Auditor's Report for the year 1871, it appears that the expenditures of that year exceeded the receipts by the sum of $217,622 32, while the same officer's report for the present year shows an excess of $197,507 81, together with the sum of $346,475 35, leaving the enormous sum of $543,983 16 to be paid out of the receipts of the present year. This financial condition arises from no new or extraordinary application of the funds, but simply from the inequality of the receipts with the ordinary disbursements, and it occurred under a taxation fifty per cent. higher than that of the fiscal year just closed, and when the income amounted to $1,378,168 00. The aggregate receipts for the year 1871 and 1872 amounted to $2,260,064 68, while the amount paid on account of public schools was $1,094,390 56, and $700,000 in payment of the interest on the bonded debt. Thus it will be observed that the public schools and interest on the bonded indebtedness absorbed the greater portion of the entire income of the State, with $317,573 35 alleged to be still due on school account.

It may be asked why this deficit should have occurred during the present administration, while the preceding administration escaped it. This is easily explained. In 1868 the treasury received from the sale of 8 per cent. bonds $556,468 46, and in 1869 $498,648 04, and transmitted a very large amount of claims to be paid by this administration without auxiliary sources from bonds or loans to discharge them. It may not be improper at this point to call your attention to the fact that no money has been drawn from the treasury to pay interest on railroad bonds, or for any purpose connected with railroads.

At the last session of the Legislature, and by act approved December 15, 1871, one million dollars of bonds were authorized to be issued. These bonds were executed in accordance with law, payable in the currency of the United States, bearing 8 per cent. interest, and placed in the hands of Lehman, Durr & Co., the Fiscal Agents of the State, for sale. It was soon discovered that on account of the depressed condition of the money market, as well as the cloud resting on Southern securities generally, they would not command a fair price, at least such a price as I considered equivalent to their value. From accounts rendered by Lehman, Durr & Co., and Duncan, Sherman & Co., herewith transmitted, you will ascertain the disposition of said bonds, as well as all moneys arising therefrom. In all my monetary necessities and transactions Duncan, Sherman & Co., the Financial Agents of the State in the city of New York, have exhibited a solicitude and willingness to aid me and maintain the credit of the State, meriting the highest praise and lasting gratitude of the people of Alabama. To maintain the State's credit they have at all times exhibited a solicitude of a higher and more disinterested character than that which ordinarily actuates a mere agent.

To Lehman, Durr & Co., the home Fiscal Agents of the State, a grateful recognition of their services and earnest efforts in our behalf is justly due. Whenever it has been necessary and possible their assistance has been promptly and adequately rendered, while their official duties as Fiscal Agents have been efficiently and faithfully discharged.

The reports of the Auditor and Treasurer will exhibit in detail the transactions of their respective offices during the past fiscal year. These offices have been examined by commissioners appointed under section 70 of the Revised Code, whose reports submitted to this Department establish the efficiency with which their administration has been conducted. The Auditor has elaborated many questions of policy which will engage your deliberations. His views may not in all cases command your approval, yet many of his suggestions are worthy your consideration.

The treasury office has throughout the two years of this administration given many gratifying proofs of the solicitude, both of the excellent chief officer and his worthy assistant, to guard the fiscal interest of the State, and to uphold the effort of the Executive to maintain our public credit.

The Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction is herewith transmitted for your inspection. That officer has been burdened with duties, the onerous character of which he alone can justly and adequately estimate. There is no department of the government whose workings and administration address themselves so directly to the feelings, I may add, the prejudices, of the popular heart. To manage an enlarged school system successfully, and satisfactorily to all classes, communities and sections of the State, is an achievement within the power of few officers, if at all possible. The present Superintendent has labored diligently and zealously to render the common schools efficient, and fruitful of good to the people; and wherever he has failed the failure may be safely ascribed to the faults of the system.

No educational system can succeed unless it is firmly established in the popular heart, and sustained by popular approbation—unless supported and cherished, instead of being neglected and the constant subject of complaint. it becomes an incubus upon the mental development of the masses. There is much reason to fear that the Common School System of this State has failed to accomplish its grand mission, and if not modified at an early day, will prove an entire failure. Its framework is the creature of the constitution, and, therefore, cannot be reached by legislation. Amendments of the constitution, whenever practicable, should be submitted to the people, not to destroy, but to make a better and more effective system, and within the financial capacity of the State to maintain.

In accordance with the provisions of a statute enacted at the last session of the General Assembly, an Agricultural and Mechanical College has been established and organized at the town of Auburn, in the county of Lee. A Board of Directors, composed of some of the most experienced citizens of the State, overlook its interests and management. A competent corps of professors have been chosen, under whom the institution promises prosperity and usefulness.

The funds for the maintenance of the college are derived from the sale of land scrip donated for that purpose by the Government of the United States. The Scrip, as the General Assembly at its last session was informed, was disposed of at the price of two hundred and sixteen thousand dollars which amount has been paid. By act approved, the money so derived was required to be invested in the eight per cent. bonds issued under the act approved.

Prior to the passage of the last named act, the Auditor as shown by his report had invested a part of the fund in bonds to the value of $59,500 00, and of the remainder of the fund the financial agents, Duncan, Sherman & Co., hold $159,000 00, of said bonds making an aggregate of $218,500 00. Eight per cent. interest bearing bonds, with coupons due July 1872. I considered the law of — 1872, — as contemplating an investment at par, and as the bonds were in New York, I considered this special deposit with the financial agents, as the safe and proper course. The money arising therefrom has been properly credited in the financial account of the State by this Department.

This report of the Warden and Inspectors will exhibit the condition of the penitentiary. Pursuant to law the convicts have been hired out. The policy of the system should be enquired into at the present session. It invokes grave questions which investigation alone can determine, and I urge it upon your immediate consideration. I refrain from enlarging this communication with details already embodied in said report.

Reports from the various public institutions of the State will be transmitted as soon as received at this Department.

I also transmit papers connected with the swamp lands, showing the acts of the commissioners and agents which will guide you in any inquiry or legislation you may institute with regard to them. An amount of money has been realized from a sale of a portion of said lands which has been certified into the treasury, as will more fully appear from the reports of the Auditor and Treasurer.

In my last annual message I communicated to the General Assembly a detailed narrative of the complication, and embarrassments, in which the State had been involved by the failure of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad Company to pay the interest due on bonds for the payment of which the credit of the State had been pledged by endorsement. To extricate the State from these embarrassments I have worked constantly and earnestly and have been animated with the hope that I had succeeded and would have the pleasing satisfaction of announcing to the present Legislature a complete settlement of the vexing question. In this I have been somewhat disappointed, yet I trust that what has been accomplished will enable my successor to bring it speedily to a successful and satisfactory conclusion. I will here endeavor to present clearly but concisely the history of my most important acts in this connection since my last message on this subject.

The interest on the endorsed bonds of this company falling due on the 1st of January and July 1871, I had caused to be paid in pursuance of an act providing for such payment. Under the provisions of the same act I paid the interest which became due on the 1st day of January, 1872. This I believed it to be my duty to do; my intention to pay this interest was explicitly declared in a special message transmitted to the General Assembly at its last session and previous to the payment. The money used to pay it was furnished by Lehman, Durr & Co., fiscal agents on my order, to Duncan, Sherman & Co., all of which will appear from their accounts.

Under a decree of the bankrupt court, the Alabama & Chattanooga Railroad was sold at public auction and for and on behalf the State I bought it at the price of $312,000 00.

To vest the legal title in the State was in my opinion indispensable to secure the State against the loss of her rights and liens.

Of the three hundred and twelve thousand I paid the assignees in bankruptcy one hundred thousand dollars which I raised by temporary loan. The balance yet remains unpaid. The Honorable Richard Busteed, Judge of the District Court of the United States sitting in cases of bankruptcy, on application and proper representations extended the time of payment of the balance of said purchase money. Authorized by the same legislative act, I offered the road for sale on such terms as the value of the property dictated and I believed would meet the approval of the people. I encountered great difficulties at every step of my negotiations, especially because of the complication in which it was involved. Two suits were pending in the circuit court of the United States which deterred capitalists from risking liabilities so large in their amount, without security from the peril which the lawsuits threatened to the title I might be able to convey. One of the suits alluded to aimed at the overthrow of the bankrupt proceedings and the consequent destruction of the legal title which the State acquired by the purchase at said sale. The other suit had for its object the withdrawal of the road from the control of the bankrupt court and to transfer it to receivers. The actors in these suits were in fact the bankrupts themselves who sought to defeat the rights, liens and possession of the State.

In addition to these, other obstacles of a grave character opposed my efforts to effect a sale. The State of Georgia asserted a lien over that portion of the road recognized by the bankrupt court within her limits and had seized it. I had neither the right nor power to forcibly take possession of that portion; satisfaction of the claim of Georgia was therefore necessary to enable me to put a purchaser in possession of the entire road. To overcome so many serious difficulties seemed impossible, yet the deterioration of the property, the constantly accumulating interest on the bonds and the vast injury which the country through which the road run was suffering from its irregular operations, all these urged,—demanded a disposition of it, even if that disposition incurred some sacrifice on the part of the State. Parties were at length found who agreed to form a company to purchase it on the following terms:

1. To assume the payment of the endorsed bonds $4,720,000.

2. To pay all future accruing interest.

3. To secure by first mortgage bonds running twenty years all past due interest on said endorsed bonds.

4. To pay $212,000 due to the assignees in bankruptcy.

5. To refund the hundred thousand dollars paid the said assignees by the State.

6. To pay the further sum of $58,000 to aid in defraying the expenses incurred by the State in and about the road.

These terms were offered and I agreed to accept them, but before the consummation of the agreement a decree was rendered by Judge Bradley, one of the justices of the Supreme Court of the United States sitting as Circuit Judge confirming in substance the bankrupt court proceedings in the matter of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad Company, the validity of the sale and therein the legal title of the State and in express language the liens of the State, and the right to assert them as well as to use all the summary remedies provided by the endorsement laws. Thus far the decree was most excellent in its effect upon the interests of the State. The establishment of her liens was result paramount to all other considerations in value, and greatly to be desired. The validity of the State's lien had been strenuously assailed by both the bankrupt company and second mortgage bond holders. If their struggle to destroy it had succeeded the State would have been compelled to bear the burden of endorsement—the liability to pay the principal and interest of the money that built the road while the bankrupt enjoyed the property. The State was not directly or indirectly a party to the proceedings on which led to Judge Bradley's decree, was not present at its rendition, nor in any manner participated therein, yet I cannot but think that it will prove of the greatest advantage in settling forever the validity of the liens secured by the endorsement laws. The said judge appointed two Receivers to take possession of the road, and gave them power to take possession of it from Chattanooga to Meridian, but provided in the decree that said Receivers should surrender it to any parties to whom the State of Alabama should sell. The appointment of Receivers was designed to effect a delivery of the entire road and movable property belonging to it to the purchaser without molestation or hindrance, which experience has proven to have been judicious and necessary. The decree invested the Receivers with power to raise $1,200,000 by mortgage on the road to complete its construction and amply equip it. The accompanying copy of the said decree is herewith transmitted.

The receivers have taken possession of the road, repaired and put it in operation throughout its entire length. The purchasers, in accordance with agreement, paid to my agent, Col. Gindrat, seventy-five thousand dollars, part of the $158,000 to be paid in cash to the State, promising to pay the balance in a short time. This they have failed to do. Neither have they complied with the other stipulations of the contract. No conveyance has been made to them.

This is briefly a statement of the main transactions of this department connected with the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad. To have given a minute history of this matter would have extended this communication far beyond justifiable limits.

In my labors and efforts to protect the State and her interests in this railroad, the assistance of the most eminent counsel was needed and employed, to whose ability and devotion I am eminently indebted for my triumph over my multiplied and in many instances most unscrupulous adversaries. I had to contend against litigation in the courts of Tennessee, Georgia and Mississippi, as well as Alabama, in any one of which defeat would have been disastrous to the State. In Tennessee, Col. John Baxter; in Georgia, Nesbet and Jackson, and the late Hon. Wm. Dougherty; and in Alabama, Pettus & Dawson, Stone & Clopton, and Watts & Troy, were the attorneys employed and their compensation will be presented for your action and allowance. I recommend a special committee for the ascertainment of their fees as well as to inquire into indebtedness due to certain employees which the income of the road was insufficient to meet during the time it was operated under the authority of the State. The reports of Col. Gindrat and Col. Harding who superintended its management at the time will guide the action of the committee.

Whatever has been done in connection with this Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad by the present Executive, it has always been prompted by a deep, earnest desire to vindicate and protect the rights and interests of the State, and I leave it with the reflection that at all times and under all opposing circumstances I have inflexibly, anxiously and vigilantly pursued that object alone—the protection of the interests of Alabama.

Gentlemen, in conclusion, permit me to express the hope that your legislative labors will be prosecuted with harmony, wisdom and patriotism, under the beneficent guidance and influence of Divine Providence.

And whereas, In the first instance, the right to seats in this Senate, depends upon the person applying therefor, having a certificate of the Secretary of State, founded on the returns of the election made to that officer by the Board of Supervisors of the respective counties composing their districts, which evidence the Senators now occupying such seats did produce; therefore,

Which were read and adopted, and ordered to be spread upon the Journal of the Senate :

A mysterious and overruling Providence has, in the dispensation of His inscrutable purposes, removed from amongst us one of the most worthy and esteemed members of the General Assembly of Alabama. Newton L. Whitfield, late a member of the House of Representatives from the county of Tuskaloosa, is no more. He died at his lodgings, in this city, of a violent attack of pneumonia, at the hour of two o'clock, on yesterday morning. But a few days ago he walked in our midst, in all the grandeur of his generous nature. an admirable specimen of a perfect man in all that constitutes that noblest work of God. To-day he sleeps with the lamented dead, at a time when the bereavement falls most heavily upon us in our deliberations as to the proper adjustment of the political difficulties environing our General Assembly. We needed the light of his well trained mind and enlarged experience, to direct by his counsel and enforce by his logic the reliable conclusions of his grasping intellect at this important crisis in the affairs of our State.

Submitting with becoming reverence to that Providence which denies to man the shaping of His ways, we feel it to be our duty to pay this humble tribute to his memory, that the archives of our State may hold in memoriam our appreciation of the man, the patriot and the statesman,

“ Who is gone from the mountain,
 Who is lost from the forest,
 Like a summer-dried fountain,
 When our needs are the sorest.”

Therefore—

Be it resolved by the Senate of Alabama, That the sudden and unexpected death of the Hon. N. L. Whitfield, a member of the House of Representatives from Tuskaloosa county, fills our hearts with the deepest sorrow.

2d. That in the death of Mr. Whitfield we recognize the loss of one of the purest and ablest of the members of the General Assembly; a patriot whose loss at this time is a calamity to the State.

3d. That we extend to his bereaved family and friends the assurance of our deepest sympathy in this dark hour of their affliction.

You will execute this warrant and make your return on the same without delay.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State, at the city of Montgomery, this the eleventh day of December, A. D. 1872, and of independence of the United States the ninety-seventh year.

 STATE OF ALABAMA, }
 Montgomery, December 12, 1872. }

Dr. R. H. Ervin, President, and Democratic Members of Legislature meeting in the Capitol, Montgomery, Ala. :

GENTLEMEN—I have to inform you that I have received a long telegram from the Department of Justice, suggesting a basis for the adjustment of the question connected with the organization of the General Assembly. While informing you of it, though informally, I wish to add that I shall submit to you, as well as to the General Assembly at the Court-room, copies of the same, and a communication from this Department touching the same.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

DAVID P. LEWIS,
 Governor.

On motion of Mr. Cobb—

The communication from the Governor was laid upon the table until the plan of adjustment shall be received.

The following communication from the Governor was received, by his page :

STATE OF ALABAMA, }
 EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
 Montgomery, December 12, 1872. }

Dr. R. H. Ervin, President, and the Democratic Senators and Members of the Legislature, at the Capitol :

I have the honor herewith to submit to you a copy of a telegram received by me from Hon. George H. Williams of the Department of Justice, Washington City, proposing terms for adjustment of the questions involved in the contests respecting the organization of our General Assembly.

When it is remembered, that there has been a full and able representation of the merits of the controversy by authorized commissioners, pro and con, who have personally appeared before the Department of Justice, we are authorized to receive these suggestions as a gentle intimation of the convictions of the law officer of the United States Government of his views of what is right. And allow me to say, that we should acquiesce in it with more cheerfulness, since it comes rather as friendly advice, than as a command.

While I have heretofore carefully refrained from sanctioning or condemning any plan that was under consideration, I feel it my duty to declare, that these suggestions of the Attorney-General should be unhesitatingly accepted, and carried out in good faith and sincerity of purpose.

Allow me to add, that our General Assembly will then, both in members and animus, be in a more hopeful condition for the important legislation that the interests of the State demand, than by any other solution that is likely to be attained.

I have the honor to be

Your obedient servant,

DAVID P. LEWIS,
Governor.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 11, 1872.

To Governor D. P. Lewis :

Two organizations at Montgomery, Alabama, claiming to be the General Assembly of that State, have appealed to the President, and with his approval I submit as a plan of compromising the difficulty the following :

1st. Officers of each organization shall tender their resignations, to take effect upon the permanent organization of a House of Representatives as hereinafter provided. .

2d. On the — inst. the hall of the House in the Capitol shall be vacant, and at twelve o'clock of that day all the persons holding certificates of election shall assemble therein, but the persons holding the certificate of Secretary Ragland shall be the only representatives seated from Barbour county, and shall make, in the usual manner, a temporary organization.

3d. Two tellers, one Republican and one Democrat, shall be appointed by the Speaker pro tem., who shall publicly and in the presence of the House count the votes cast for Representatives in the county of Marengo, and for that purpose they shall take the returns of the precinct inspectors of said county, or in case they can not be procured, the evidence of said inspectors so far as the same may be necessary to ascertain the actual vote cast as aforesaid, and the persons found upon such count to have the highest number of votes for Representatives shall be seated as such from said county; but the persons now holding certificates of election as representatives from Marengo shall not vote upon or in said temporary organization, nor shall any business, other than deciding the contest as to said county, be transacted during such organization.

4th. When such contest is determined, the House shall make a permanent organization in the usual way.

5th. On said — inst. the Senate Chamber shall be vacant, and at 12 o'clock the persons holding certificates of election as Senators shall assemble therein and organize, the Lieutenant Governor presiding, with the person holding the certificate of Secretary Ragland in his seat as the only Senator from Barbour county, and the votes for Senator in Marengo county shall be counted in the same way and upon the same kind of evidence as is hereinbefore provided for the House contest as to said county; and upon such count the person found to have the highest number of votes for Senator from said county shall be seated as such, but the person now holding the certificate of election to the Senate from said county shall not vote upon any question while the contest about his seat is pending; and then the contest as to the district comprising the counties of Butler and Conecuh shall be decided in the same way and upon the same kind of evidence, and the person now holding the certificate as Senator from said district shall not vote upon any question before he is declared elected upon a count of the votes of said district as aforesaid, nor shall the Senate do any other business before these contests are settled. No person not holding a certificate of election shall take his seat in the body until his right thereto is affirmed as above provided.

Mr. Parks, from the special committee to whom was referred the communication of the Governor and the plan of adjustment submitted by the Attorney-General of the United States, made the following

REPORT :

That so far as relates to the election of the Senator from Marengo county, your committee are of the opinion that a fair and just construction of the terms of the proposition submitted as aforesaid as a basis of settlement, will not preclude the introduction of proper evidence before the body organized in pursuance thereof, nor deny to said body so constituted the right to judge, upon "good and sufficient evidence," whether fraud has been perpetrated, or unlawful or wrongful means been resorted to, to prevent electors from freely and fearlessly casting their ballots, "and the power" to reject such illegal fraudulent votes, if any should be found to have been cast.

For the foregoing reasons, and with a desire to see the causes which have threatened the peace of the Commonwealth removed, tranquility restored to the public mind, and the general welfare conserved, your committee respectfully recommend and advise the acceptance of said proposition as a basis of settlement of pending difficulties.

But in making this recommendation, we do it with a solemn protest, believing the suggestions and plan of settlement proposed by the Attorney-General of the United States to be equivalent to a coercive measure of the Federal Government.

Respectfully submitted.

W. H. PARKS,
Chairman.

Mr. Hewitt, of said committee, made the following

MINORITY REPORT:

The minority of the special committee to whom was referred the resolution in relation to the communication of his Excellency the Governor, enclosing terms of compromise between the General Assembly at the Capitol and the body claiming to be the General Assembly meeting at the United States Court-room in this city, have had the same under consideration, and have instructed me to report in favor of the adoption of the same.

The committee are induced to report in favor of the compromise, not because they are not satisfied with the legality of the organization of the General Assembly at the Capitol, but simply in order to secure the country from anarchy and civil discord.

Whereas, the Inspectors' returns of the vote of the several election precincts of the county of _____ for members of the General Assembly of Alabama, at the election held on Tuesday, the 5th of November, 1872, are important and necessary evidence, before a temporary organization of the General Assembly of Alabama, to commence on Tuesday, the 17th inst., at the Capitol, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization, under a compromise proposed by the Attorney General of the United States, for the purpose of settling the conflicting claims of the two General Assemblies; the one at the Capitol, and the other at the United States Court Room.
